3.2 – Innovation Ecosystem

1

3.2.1 – Institution has created an ecosystem for innovations and has initiatives for creation and transfer of knowledge

BLM Girls College strives for the development of innovative activities like entrepreneurship development and skill development. A vibrating environment is created in the campus to support innovation. Innovations are also considered important as the teacher quality and institutional social responsibility are dependent upon the institution's contribution towards innovation. The institution provides an environment for the promotion of innovation and for dissemination of knowledge.

- Students have an opportunity to translate their new ideas into projects.
- Number of activities are conducted through Departmental Students Associations for students to promote innovations and creativity.
- The institution organises activities focussing on women empowerment, entrepreneurship and motivating the students to take part in these activities.
- The faculty members are also empowered to take research activities with the existing facilities.
- Staff members are encouraged to engage in interdisciplinary research activities and resource sharing.
- The College provides adequate training to the faculty members in the form of professional development programs and organizes and participate in conferences, seminar, workshops, awareness meets and guest lectures.
- The institute has a well-defined and published research promotion policy.
- The institute gives a free hand to report research results and findings.
